

Architects & Designers

This list is a comprehensive list of registered Architects nationally who subscribe to reputable architectural magazines. The magazines keep architects up to date with the latest architectural related products. They include product profiles on specific items, new computer equipment updates and general industry news.

Architecture Media titles include:

Architecture Australia: Australia's leading architectural magazine and the national magazine of the Royal Australian Institute of Architects.

Houses: The residential architecture magazine for designers and their clients.

Architectural Product News: Features design & building product information for specifiers and other building design professionals.

Artichoke: For design industry professionals - the national magazine of the Design Institute of Australia.

The magazines are produced in association with an on-line building product information library known as;

Selector.com: Developed in partnership with the Royal Australian Institute of Architects, the online service presents detailed product information for thousands of building products in an easy-to-read, standardised format.
