Kids on the Block

Families with under 12's represent a very different market where the needs of kids for clothes, toys, sporting goods, games and consoles is unique for a relatively short number of years. This list captures those households for your communications to the adult decision-makers.

Sourced from the Prospect Universe database, data integrity is maintained through regular updates and validation against other sources, whilst the addition of new records and the suppression of records that have moved or died ensures accuracy.
